Quick Search
Learn about the Quick Search on the Rebecca Crown Library homepage.

1. Search using the Quick Search
   - Go to the Rebecca Crown Library homepage www.dom.edu/library.
   - Type your search term into the “Quick Search” field in the “Locate Materials” box.
   - You can use the default keyword search or search by title or author.

2. Results
   - Quick Search will search all of the library’s print and digital holdings. It will not search other libraries or the web.
   - For some searches, you may see a “Research Starter” as the first result. This is a quick link to a reference source on your topic and can be a good place to find background information.

   - Each search result will identify the type of source, provide title, author, and publication information, and the call number for a book in the library or a link to a digital resource.

3. Narrow Your Search

- To narrow your search, look to the “Refine Results” Panel on the right side of the results page.
- You can narrow your search to “Full Text,” “Peer Reviewed,” or “Library Catalog Only” by checking the corresponding boxes in the “Limit To” section.
- You can narrow the date range by dragging the start or end date in the “Publication Date” section.

- Click on the other categories in the “Refine Results” panel to see more options for narrowing your search. Check the boxes to select an option for narrowing your search or click on “Show More” for more options.
